

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN NOTIFICATION ON INVALID CERTIFICATES

QCS formerly accredited by JASANZ is now being accredited by Accreditation Service for certifying Bodies (Europe) Limited – ASCB(www.ascb.co.uk). Therefore all certificates being issued by QCS with JASANZ Logos stands to be invalid effective from 15th may 2018 or its expiration dates whichever is earlier as per our previous notifications, if it has not been already transferred to QCS & ASCB Accreditation logos. QCS will not take any liabilities on account of improper usage of QCS and JASANZ logos after the aforementioned date as per our previous notifications.

It has come to our notice that Fake certificates are being issued in our name. IT has also come to our notice that invalid certificates which have already expired or suspended or cancelled by QCS are still being circulated in the market as valid certificates.

Therefore we will like to inform our relevant interested parties that QCS and ASCB symbols are registered trade of marks of the afore mentioned companies, which can only be used by active clients as per our register according to our logos rules and regulations mentioned on our website.

Therefore it is being hereby advised to our clients and our other relevant interested parties to kindly authenticate our certificates from QCS company website(www.qcspl.com) at registered clients section. If accredited certificates are issued with the logo of ASCB it will also be registered on IRQAO website @www.irqao.co.uk. if certificates are not registered in the respective websites of QCS & IRQAO it should be treated as invalid.

Any unauthorized usage of logos of QCS AND ASCB are strictly forbidden by law for which QCS will not be liable for any breach of our logo rules & regulations. QCS will also reserve its right to take strongest possible legal action against the offending party in case of reported incidents of misuse of our name and logos in the market.
